THE BOSS AND HIS RECORD HEAD OF IMMIGRATION SERVICE COMING

M'Candless And His Land Deals

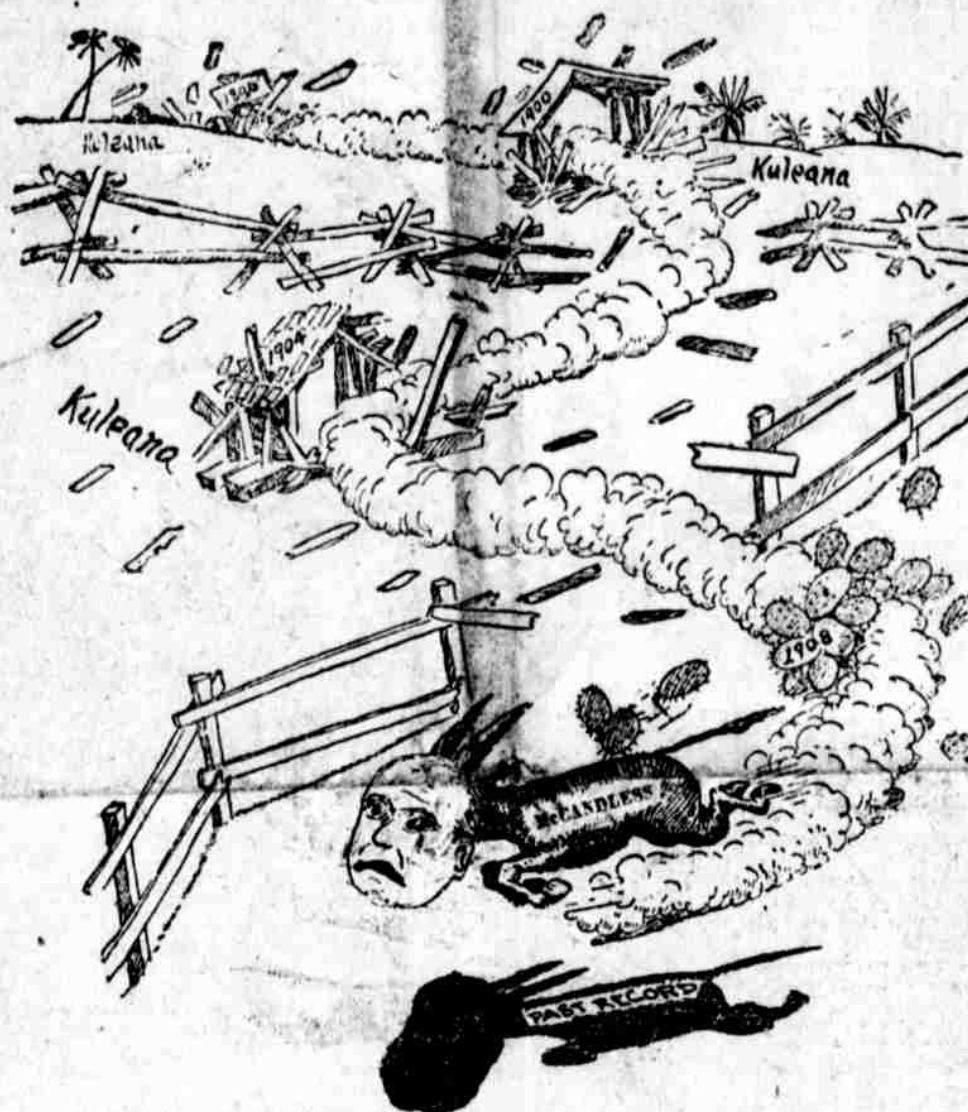

Twenty-Four Years of Frenzied Finance Shown By Records

Link McCandless, land grabber for twenty-four years. Link McCandless, forecloser of mortgages, lender of money, dealer in property of poor Hawaiians. Link McCandless, whose record since 1886 shows that he has "cut into" more petty deals, grabbed more kuleanas from Hawaiians than any other man whose history is now public property. Link McCandless, who now declares that the Republicans are trying to get all the lands for themselves. Link McCandless, who is charged on the stump with paying his own plantation workers a few dollars a month, with hiring Japanese wherever possible, with driving his own workmen to the wall. Finally, Link McCandless, boss of the Democratic party in Oahu, discredited in his own county.—"Boss" McCandless, candidate for Delegate to Congress on the Democratic ticket!

Figures do not lie,—that's an old maxim that even Boss McCandless with his specious arguments and false premises can't disprove. Here are some figures on McCandless's land deals since he has been a resident of the territory. They are set down in black and white at the Territorial Bureau of Conveyances. Anyone can see them. Since August 28, 1886, when McCandless began his career of wholesale land-grabbing, he has been mixed up in three hundred and forty-seven deals. Not one year has passed in the last twenty-four that McCandless has not been scheming and planning and contriving to get land, get land, always to get land for himself. The records show that he has taken every means. He has dealt in mortgages of all kinds, contracts, releases, agreements, chattels, dowers, notes, foreclosures—anything that would give him more land. Spread on the public record is many a story of Link's schemes, and some of the people that Link has dealt with, some of the Hawaiians fighting to hold their little pieces of property, could tell interesting stories of a hard and unyielding creditor. Since McCandless's name first appeared upon the public records, in 1886, he has owned, had mortgages on, or controlled no less than three hundred and forty-seven pieces of land in the Territory.

When he appeared before the people two years ago, seeking to be elected Delegate to Congress, the record showed two hundred and eighty-four conveyances. He was defeated then. He has spent the last two years working to be elected now, but he has not been too busy to secure conveyances for sixty-three additional pieces of property. This is the same man who declared, in a speech on the land question at Kalaheo, Papeete, Hawaii: "If one grabs the whole thing for himself, the land will not be prosperous." Of course, McCandless may not have been trying to grab the whole thing for himself when he grabbed something like three hundred and forty-seven pieces of land. He may be intending to leave his money to charity, to found a college, to send Sunday school books to the Hottentots, or to fit out an expedition to the moon. He may not have been trying to grab the whole thing for himself when he took mortgages and assignments, mortgage releases and chattel mortgages to the number of sixty-seven. Perhaps he felt that the land would be safer in his hands than anywhere else. Here are some more figures on McCandless's deals, also taken from the public records: Leases and assignments, 30; chattel mortgages, 3; agreements, surrenders of leases, mortgage releases and releases of dower, 17; miscellaneous, 4.

TRYING TO GET AWAY FROM HIS OWN SHADOW

The above figures are correct up to October 13 last. Probably during the time McCandless has added a few more kuleanas to his credit—or discredited.

Yet McCandless is the man posing as the savior of the Hawaiians, promising them higher wages if he is elected, promising them prosperity, promising them anything that he thinks will catch a vote.

If the records showed, instead of bare figures, the truth behind the figures, McCandless would not catch many votes. If the devious trail of twenty-four years could be followed in all its windings, it might reveal many deals that are not on the public records.

Can catching notes and catching votes be successfully combined? Ask Boss McCandless after November 8.

A WORD ABOUT TAXES

Link McCandless, candidate on the Democratic ticket for Delegate to Congress, is delinquent in his taxes to the extent of $549.15, according to the figures of Henry Cobb Adams, Deputy Assessor of Koolau-poko. McCandless has been trying to make political capital by charging Republican candidates with tax delinquency. Here is what his own record is, according to the Deputy Assessor's figures on the first of this month:

KOO LAUPOKO DISTRICT.
L. L. McCandless, successor to Polani.
Real property, including penalties:
1906	$ 6.60
1907	6.20
Total	$ 12.80—$ 12.80

Rev. Stephen Desha, Honolulu. I hereby certify that this is copied from the Koolauloa assessment books. (Signed) HENRY COBB ADAMS, Deputy Assessor Koolauloa. (Dated) Honolulu, Nov. 1, 1910.

IT'S A LIE, SAYS BOSS ON SOAP-BOX

Boss McCandless, in a speech on the soap-box made as the Bulletin is going to press, declares that the statement that he has unpaid taxes standing against his property is a lie. "I'll bet five thousand dollars this doesn't show on any books in the county," declares the boss.

Ainahau May Be Given For Park

Ex-Governor Cleghorn Told Friends His Wishes To Preserve Beauties Intact

That instructions for making ex-Governor Cleghorn's home, Ainahau, into a public park for the benefit of all Honolulu are contained in his will and are to be made public when that document is opened, is the report today. Several times during the past few months the ex-Governor told his friends, carrying out of his plans to the trustees appointed in the will, merely over the beautiful grounds to the public after his death, and he spoke of several plans by which this might be accomplished. It was his desire that the beautiful estate, which has been admired by so many thousands of residents of Honolulu, should not be cut up and sold in smaller lots when he was no longer its master, and to this end he determined to give it intact as a public trust to the government to be taken care of in the way he has for it during his many years' residence upon it. Not even his most intimate friends know in detail the plan of disposition of the home and other buildings, whether they are to be used as a museum or not. It is understood from the conversations he has held with friends that the late Governor has left the trustees appointed in the will, merely outlining in a general way his wishes in respect to the matter. It has been decided that funeral services over the remains of the late ex-Governor Cleghorn will be held at the Anglican cathedral at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Rev. Canon Ault officiating, and interment will be made at the mausoleum, where the other members of the family already lie at rest. The pall-bearers chosen are Chief Justice A. S. Hartwell, Judge Sargent, Justice B. Dole, T. Olive Davies, E. P. residence upon it. (Continued on Page 4)

GENERAL BLISS CONSIDERS LEILEHUA FINE LOCATION FOR BIG U. S. ARMY POST

Following the conference that was held yesterday between Brigadier-General Bliss, commander of the Department of California, Quartermaster-General Alesha and representatives of the Dowsett Estate, another day was spent by the two officers at Schofield Barracks, Leilehua, in looking over the land and making comparisons of the two sites for the permanent army post, to cost $2,000,000. It was reported this morning that the negotiations that were formally begun yesterday with the representatives of the Dowsett Estate promise to result satisfactorily and that no obstacles are expected to be encountered in the acquisition by the Federal government of the necessary 3000 acres of the Dowsett Estate, some adjoining and some included within the present reservation lines of Leilehua. It is also stated that the successful outcome of the first day's negotiations will have a bearing upon the selection of the site for the new permanent post buildings, a problem which is now to be determined by Secretary of War Dickenson and General Bliss, their opinion on the permanent site for the buildings and general location of the post proper being final. General Bliss has expressed himself to the effect that with the acquisition of the 3000 acres from the Dowsett Estate, Leilehua will be one of the finest cavalry posts of the army, he having been impressed with the adaptability of the country to the needs if a big post, constantly increasing in size. The necessity for quick work in the determination of the location of the post buildings at Leilehua is further evidenced by the information that a full infantry regiment is to be stationed there, Schofield Barracks then becoming a brigade post. No information has been received as to the regiment that will come, but no apprehension is now felt that negro troops will be sent here. Colonel Macomb, who becomes a brigadier general shortly, will arrive in January to command the new army district of Hawaii.

ONE IS LOST IN BATTLE WITH WAVES

Yesterday morning, just as day was breaking, two boats containing eight Hawaiians, who had been out fishing all night, and were attempting to make a landing at Waihee beach, were caught by the heavy surf that was running just outside of the reef. The men were left struggling in the water while the two boats were washed over the reef and in a short time were piled up on the shore. All of the occupants of the two boats except one succeeded in reaching shore safely, but only after a terrible struggle with the heavy rollers. The man who was drowned was W. P. Kama, who was about 44 years of age. He has a small kuleana in that district and leaves a family of seven children, the eldest of which, a son, was in the boat with his father and made heroic efforts to save the unfortunate men. All day yesterday a number of boats searched in the vicinity of the accident for the body but without avail. The water at that place is very clear and all objects on the bottom are clearly seen but the body was not found. Today a number of boats are keeping up the search with a hope of getting the body of the drowned man.

BIRTHDAY OF MUTSUHITO IS CELEBRATED BY JAPANESE WITH CEREMONIAL HOLIDAY

Today is the birthday of His Imperial Majesty, Emperor Mutsuhito of Japan. Throughout the wide world his subjects are celebrating the event with patriotic spirit. In Honolulu today, where a large number of Japanese reside, the occasion is also commemorated with feasts and social calls. From sunrise until sunset there will be plenty to keep the Japanese here busy. Promptly at 8 o'clock this morning the Japanese warships, in command of Admiral R. Yashiro, which are now in port, broke out in colors from stem to stern. Two large Japanese flags are waving proudly from the mainmast, while the colors of the other nations adorn other parts of the ships. In honor of the birthday anniversary of the Emperor, Admiral Yashiro's men this morning decorated the naval dock with marine and international colors, in honor of an At Home to be given this afternoon at 3 o'clock. During the reception to be held at the Young Hotel tonight, the entire ships will be brilliantly illuminated with electric lights. The search lights from the two ships will be thrown upon the Young Hotel, at signals given from Admiral Yashiro's flagship Asama. Reception Tonight. Consul-General Uyeno, assisted by Elve Consul Mori, this morning held a reception at the consulate for the Japanese people. No foreigners were present. The band serenaded the Imperial representative from the second floor of the building. At a stated hour this morning the Japanese school children, numbering about one thousand, called at the consulate to pay their respects to Consul-General Uyeno and Elve Consul Mori. IMMIGRATION TO BE INSPECTED BY CHIEF

(Associated Press Cable.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—Daniel J. Keefe, Commissioner-General of Immigration, will be in Honolulu in a few weeks on an important trip of inspection which includes all of the Coast offices, it is understood, as well as that of the Territory of Hawaii. Commissioner Keefe is inaugurating a number of reforms in the immigration service and wishes to get in close touch with the work now going on.

HONDURAS RACKED BY A REVOLUTION

(Associated Press Cable.) TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Nov. 3.—Martial law has been declared in Honduras as a result of a general revolution. General Valladares is deposed as commander of the army. The gunboat Princeton is cruising in Honduras waters, pro-
